Head Coach of Penn Fencing - Dave Micahnik

DAVE MICAHNİK 30th season

For the past 48 years, Dave Micahnik's name has been synonymous with the Penn Fencing program. Beginning back in 1955 when he was a student-athlete under the late-Maestro Lajos Csiszar to the upcoming 2004 season, which finds him preparing for his 30th year at the helm of the Red and Blue.

While Micahnik, who is only the third head coach in the history of the program, might equal Penn Fencing, his name also translates into continued success for the Red and Blue as the Quakers' leader has overseen 29 consecutive winning seasons for both the men's and women's programs. In addition, he has led his squads to two NCAA Championships, 11 Intercollegiate Fencing Association (IFA) titles and 19 Ivy League banners.

And the Hits Just Keep on Coming

While as a team the Quakers have enjoyed a spoil of riches, the Red and Blue's success under Micahnik does not stop there, as the 1959 graduate of the University of Pennsylvania has coached 32 fencers who have gone on to international competition, including most recently Cliff Bayer and Tamir Bloom who competed in the 2000 Olympic Games representing the United States.

Along with the international exposure, Micahnik has also guided five individual NCAA champions, 42 All-Americans and 81 All-Ivy selections. This past season saw Yale Cohen and Jean Goto continue the long line of All-Americans at Penn after the duo garnered second-team and honorable mention, respectively, from the United States Coaches Fencing Association.

Another Banner Season

The men's and women's team combined for their fifth-straight top-20 finish at the NCAA Championships in 2003 after finishing 11th overall, while the men's team captured the program's 15th Ivy League crown (and 10th under Micahnik) in 2003 after posting a 3-1 League mark and 13-3 overall record.

With their 13-3 showing, the Red and Blue improved to 258-79 (.766) under Micahnik. Overall under his tutelage, the Quakers have captured 11 Ivy League banners, including three since 1999 and eight consecutive from 1976-83.

The women's team continued to improve in the win column as the Red and Blue went 14-5 overall in 2003 and extended their record under Micahnik to 276-78 (.780). As a team, they finished fifth overall at the IFAs in 2003, and combined with the men for a fourth-place finish.

In addition to the team's successes over the past campaign, five Quakers qualified for the NCAA Championships with Cohen and Goto placing sixth and ninth, respectively. Penn is an astounding 534-157 (.796) in the three decades Micahnik has been at the helm of the fencing programs.

On the Mantle

When checking Micahnik's coaching resume, the first item that catches one's eye is the two national championships, which his men's team captured in 1981 and his women's squad earned in 1986.

Under Micahnik, the women have finished in the top five 14 times at the NCAA Championships, while in addition to their national title in 1981, the men placed second in 1978, 1980 and 1987.

Penn has won the Ivy League championship 19 times under Micahnik. The men have captured 11 banners (1976-83, 1999, 2001 and 2003) and the women eight (1983-86, 1988, 1992 and 1994-95). The men have also posted 11 IFA titles (1976-78, 1980-83, 1985 and 1990).

When the Teacher was a Pupil

Under legendary Penn Fencing Coach Csiszar, Micahnik was a first-team All-Ivy selection in the epee as a senior, and competed in the Eastern Finals in 1958 and 1959. The following year after he graduated from Penn, Micahnik went on to become the United States National Champion and competed in the 1960 (Rome), 1964 (Tokyo) and 1968 (Mexico City, where he met current Penn Fencing assistant coach Iosif Vitebskiy) Olympic Games.

Micahnik placed second at the U.S. Nationals in 1964, 1966 and 1968. He was a member of the 1965 World Maccabiah Games gold-medal winning epee and foil teams, where he also won the individual epee and finished second in the foil. Micahnik was back for a repeat of both the individual and team epee titles at the World Maccabiah Games in 1969.

Coaching Accolades

The 1997 United States Fencing Coaches Association's Collegiate Coach of the Year, Micahnik has extensive international coaching experience, guiding U.S. teams in four Under-20 World Championships, five World University Games, two World Championships, the 1985 and 1993 World Maccabiah Games and the 1986 and 1988 Junior Pan-American Games.

Still Competing

Micahnik continues to compete in the sport he loves today, having captured two silver medals in the Veteran-60 Men's Epee at the Veteran's National Championships in 2000 and 2001.

Hall of Fame Fencer

Nineteen ninety-seven saw Micahnik inducted into the inaugural class of the Philadelphia Jewish Sports Hall of Fame and Class II of the University of Pennsylvania's Athletic Hall of Fame. This past offseason saw Micahnik inducted into the Luzerne County (Pa.) Athletic Hall of

VITEBSKIY
6th season

Iosif Vitebskiy enters his sixth season as an assistant coach with the Red and Blue. His vast knowledge and experience made an immediate impact in 1998-99 as he helped guide the men's team to its first Ivy League title since 1983, while the men's and women's teams combined for a seventh-place finish at the NCAA Championships.

Prior to his appointment at Penn, Vitebskiy served for 10 years (1988-1998) as the director of the school for high sport achievements at the State University of Ukraine. Before that, he was head coach of the Ukraine Republic National team for 13 years, where he guided five epee fencers to National and Olympic championships.

A graduate of the Kiev State University with a degree in physical culture and sport, Vitebskiy was a member of both the Soviet Union and Ukraine national teams. A 19-time national championship medalist, earning 10 gold, six silver and three bronze medals, Vitebskiy was a three-time winner of both the Soviet Union and the Europe Cup tournaments.

He is a former member of the USSR team that won three consecutive World Championships (1967-69) and earned a silver medal at the 1968 Olympic Games. In the summer of 1999, Vitebskiy won the gold medal in the Veteran 60 Men's Epee at the Summer National Championships in Charlotte, N.C.

2004 Penn Fencing Outlook

More of the same is the call for 2004 as the Penn men's and women's fencing programs prepare for another Ivy League title run. The men's squad is coming off its 15th League crown in 2003, and second banner in three seasons, after posting a 13-3 record (3-1 Ivy). The women turned in another successful campaign as well, recording a 14-5 mark (2-3 Ivy). Both squads combined for a fourth-place finish at the IFAs and an 11th-place finish at NCAAs.

Despite the loss of two All-Americans, Head Coach Dave Micahnik will return five All-Ivy selections and 23 letterwinners when competition begins in January. In addition to the returning depth, the fruits of Micahnik's recruiting efforts will be evident in the incoming Class of 2007, which consists of 13 fencers, all of whom could challenge for playing time immediately.

The men's quest for another Ancient Eight title will begin where it has the past few seasons - with the men's foil squad. Despite the graduation of All-American Yale Cohen, the foil lineup should not miss a beat with the return of seniors Andrew Radu and Jeff Breen as well as junior captain Stephen Gavalas.

Radu received the Quakers' 2003 Award for Excellence after earning a first-team All-Ivy nod on the strength of a 10-2 record (32-6 overall). The first-team nod was his second-straight and has corresponded with two-consecutive NCAA Championship appearances. Breen is one-year removed from an All-American season, although 2003 was not too shabby after he went 20-10 overall and earned a second-team All-Ivy berth. Radu and Breen have combined for a record of 182-32 over the past three seasons.

Gavalas will seek the opportunity to join the lineup on a full-time basis in 2003. Last season, the Quakers' captain posted a career-high 19 victories. In two seasons of part-time duty, Gavalas has recorded a mark of 31-12.

Sophomore Jonathan Danoff also returns for his second season at foil. He will be joined by incoming freshman Michael Galligan. Galligan should challenge for playing time immediately if he can convert his experience winning the Under-20 U.S. Men's Foil Championship into college wins right away.

At epee the Red and Blue return second-team All-Ivy sophomore Michael Sanders, junior ChungXing Mah and sophomore Ari Paul. Sanders racked up 31 victories last season (second most on the team) and placed 11th at the NCAA Championships as a rookie. Mah enjoyed a breakout season recording a career-best 25-19 record, including six victories in Ivy action. Paul went 8-5 in his collegiate debut. The returning trio will be bolstered by the addition of freshmen Jonathan Gale and Nicholas Salvatore. Gale could challenge for a spot in the starting lineup if he proves to make a quick transition from the high school to the collegiate game. Salvatore fenced at the D.C. Fencer's Club and will also need to adjust to the collegiate level.

Rounding out the men's lineup will be the sabre squad, which returns sophomores Mark Kindrachuk, William Caulin and Jeffrey Jorge as well as senior Christopher Lvoff and sophomore Jonathan Press. Kindrachuk turned in an impressive rookie campaign as he was one of only three fencers on the men's team to record 30 victories in 2003, leading his weaponmates with a record of 30-15. Caulin also turned in a strong debut, recording 21 wins, while the men's Most Improved Fencer in 2003 Jorge added a 4-3 record after switching weapons (2-0 at foil) during the middle of the season. Lvoff provided leadership to the young unit and accounted for 14 more wins. Press follows Jorge from foil, where he went 7-2 as a freshman.

Two incoming recruits could crack the starting lineup if they can make the quick transition. Emil Cappelletta and Mike Haass will push the returning letterwin-ners right away, and if both can adapt quickly they could see action.

From top to bottom the women's lineup could be the strongest it has been since the program won an NCAA title in 1986. It boasts three returning All-Ivy selections as well as two NCAA Championships competitors. The Red and Blue's chase for that elusive Ivy crown will be led by the foil lineup, as it returns two All-Ivy performers and all five letterwinners from a year ago - all of whom posted a winning record.

Junior team captain Emmanuelle Humblet and sophomore Christina Kaneshige were both All-Ivy honorees in 2003. Kaneshige was tabbed a first-team selection after posting a 32-12 mark in her rookie campaign. Humblet led the weapon in wins (33) en route to her second-team berth. The third-year fencer has won 74 bouts in just two short seasons with the Quakers. Sophomore Kate Napalkova rounds out the foil squad's returning starters. Her 29-12 record in 2003 ranked her sixth on the team.

Sophomore Monica DeFabio and senior Cindy Wang also return and will challenge the top three for playing time on a daily basis. In her rookie season, DeFabio won 10 of the 14 bouts she competed in, while Wang enjoyed an undefeated campaign with a 9-0 mark.

A strong weapon for Micahnik becomes even more formidable with the addition of freshmen Eve Overton and Danielle Vasilescu, both of whom will challenge their weaponmates immediately for a spot in the lineup.

Despite the loss of two 20-plus winners, look for the Quakers not to miss a beat with their epee lineup as 2003 Award for Excellence winner Livia Rurarz-Huygens and her 34 victories return. The epee squad will also be bolstered by the return of senior Elizabeth Kreidman. Kreidman captured 13 bouts last season and has a three-year win total of 78.

Richman will challenge immediately for one of the open positions in the starting lineup after going 9-3 last season and 21-20 over the last two seasons. The lineup will not be locked in stone as incoming freshmen Holly Buechel and Jacklyn Schramm could push for playing time immediately. Buechel is a Class A fencer and is coming off four-straight New Jersey high school district titles.

And while Penn's returners at foil and epee all possess impressive credentials, sabre should prove to be the Red and Blue's deepest weapon. The return of the 2003 Most Improved Fencer Kate Zimmerly and senior June Hsu, who combined for 49 victories from a year ago, would be a good starting point, but look for three incoming freshmen to challenge for strip time immediately.

Last season was a coming out party for both Zimmerly and Hsu as they served notice that the Quakers were solid across the board. Zimmerly recorded a career-high 24 victories and placed 18th in her first NCAA Championships appearance. Hsu won a career-high 25 wins (second-most in weapon) in her first season fencing at sabre.

Zimmerly and Hsu will be challenged right from the start as incoming rookies Annika Eiremo, Katelyn Sherry and Cassandra Frey all vie for time immediately. Each possess strong resumes and are nationally-ranked. Their early progress could make an immediate impact on Penn's Ivy title aspirations.

Adding depth at sabre will also be returning juniors Yael Miller and Ashley Zeigler, who are returning from five-win seasons.

With the returning talent and depth that both men's and women's programs already possess, along with the addition of another strong-recruiting class, Penn looks poised to add to its Ivy League and possibly NCAA hardware in 2004.

2003 Penn Fencing Recap

Men's Fencing - Ivy League Champs

For the third time in five years the Penn men's fencing team is the pride of the Ivy League, as the Red and Blue earned a tie of the 2003 Ancient Eight banner (with Columbia) after posting a 3-1 Ivy League record. The Quakers also finished the season ranked sixth by the United States Fencing Coaches Association (USFCA) and scored victories over No. 7 Princeton, No. 9 Rutgers and No. 10 Harvard en route to a 13-3 overall finish. The Red and Blue's only defeats came at the hands of higher-ranked foes.

At the NCAA Championships, Penn finished 10th overall and combined for 11th with the women. At the IFAs, the Red and Blue finished fifth overall and combined with the women's team for a fourth-place finish.

Two thousand and three saw contributions from the usual players as junior foil Andrew Radu led the team with 32 victories. Senior weaponmate Yale Cohen also topped 30 wins. While Radu and Cohen were the Quakers' old reliable, the lineup also received an infusion of youth as freshman epee Michael Sanders won 31 bouts and freshman sabre Mark Kindrachuk posted a 30-win season.

In addition to the new blood, the men's lineup produced three more 20-win fencers - sophomore epee ChungXing Mah (25), freshman sabre William Caulin (21) and junior foil Jeff Breen (20).

Post-Season Play and Honors

Cohen earned a second-team All-America berth from the USFCA after placing sixth overall at the NCAA Championships. He posted a 16-7 mark at the championships and just missed reaching the medal round.

Weaponmate Radu represented the Quakers on the All-Ivy team, earning his second-straight first-team berth, as well as earning the Red and Blue's 2003 Award for Excellence. Radu won 10-of-12 Ivy bouts this past season. He also joined Cohen at the NCAAs, placing 14th overall.

Kindrachuk capped off a strong rookie campaign by earning second-team All-Ivy honors. His six Ivy victories helped the Quakers to their 15th League banner.

Sanders was the third member of Penn's NCAA contingent, as the freshman placed 16th with nine victories.

Freshman Jeff Jorge was named the Quakers' Most Improved Fencer after switching weapons midway through the season. Jorge compiled an overall record of 6-3, beginning the season 2-0 at foil before moving to sabre, where he won his first four duels, and also recorded four victories at the IFA's.

Pacing the Attack

The men's foil squad was once again the Red and Blue's top weapon, as the team boasted two 30-win fencers, followed by a 20-bout and a 19-bout winners. In addition, the Quakers placed third at the IFA's. Radu and Cohen set the tone, and were followed by junior Jeff Breen, who finished 2003 with a mark of 20-10. Sophomore Stephen Gavalas saw his fair share of action, recording a career-high 19 victories.

Freshman Jonathan Press turned in a strong rookie debut, rolling up a record of 7-2 in limited action.

Surprise, Surprise

Entering the season, the men's epee team was the least-experienced weapon. However, senior Dan Borden, sophomore ChungXing Mah and freshman Michael Sanders combined for 54 victories and played a pivotal role as Penn captured the Ivy League flag. The epee lineup also turned in a sixth-place finish at IFAs.

Sanders was the gem of the unit, recording a 31-13 mark in his rookie season. He finished 11th at the NCAA Championships and fourth at Regionals. Borden's 18 wins were a career-high, as the veteran of the lineup also posted an 18th-place showing at the Mid-Atlantic/South Regional championships. Mah turned in a breakout campaign, rolling to a mark of 25-19 and a fifth-place finish at Regionals.

In addition, freshman Ari Paul started the season 7-0 in sabre bouts before finishing with eight victories.

Learning on the Go

The men's sabre team started two freshmen during the 2003 campaign. If Head Coach Dave Micahnik was concerned of the lack of experience his epee team possessed, he must have been really concerned about his sabre lineup. Any concern he had would have ended up being unwarranted as Mark Kindrachuk and William Caulin combined for 51 victories. The two rookies turned in stellar debuts in helping Penn to another Ivy League championship and a sixth-place finish at IFAs.

Kindrachuk was one of the team's four 30-bout winners, and led the sabre team with a mark of 30-15. He was 6-6 in Ivy League action and placed 23rd at Regionals. Meanwhile, Caulin won 21 duels and placed 12th at Regionals.

In addition to the Red and Blue's Most Improved Fencer Jeff Jorge, who went 4-3, junior Christopher Lvoff recorded 14 wins and senior Jit Fong Oon once again provided the Red and Blue lineup with depth and the willingness to compete whenever called upon.

Women's Fencing - Another Winning Season

The women's fencing team turned in its second-straight 13-win season, topping the 13-victories it recorded in 2002 by going 14-5 overall and 2-3 in the Ivy League. Highlights during the campaign included wins over No. 9 Rutgers, Stanford, Duke and M.I.T., all of which received votes along with Penn in the final United States Fencing Coaches Association (USFCA) poll. The Red and Blue combined with the men for an 11th-place finish at NCAA's (15th as a team) and combined with the men for a fourth-place finish at IFA's (fifth as a team). Also, both the epee and sabre teams earned bronze medals at the IFAs.

Two freshmen led the Quakers in victories as Jean Goto won a team-high 35 epee bouts followed by weapon and classmate Livia Rurarz-Huygens, who captured 34 bouts. Penn also had three more 30-win fencers, as senior sabre Christina Verigan and sophomore foil Emanuelle Humblet each won 33 duels, and freshman foil Christina Kaneshige recorded 32 victories.

Four more members of the Red and Blue chipped in with 20-win seasons as freshman foil Kate Napalkova just missed the 30-win plateau with 29 victories, junior June Hsu in her first season at sabre won 25 bouts, while senior epee Kimberly Linton and sophomore sabre Kate Zimmerly each racked up 24 victories.

The Best of the Best

It was two sophomores and three freshmen that took home postseason honors for the Red and Blue in 2003 as Livia Rurarz-Huygens received Penn's Award for Excellence. The freshman went 34-11 overall and 9-6 in Ivy bouts. She placed seventh at the Mid-Atlantic/South Regional championships.

Jean Goto earned All-Ivy and All-American honors after leading the Quakers with a record of 35-14. She earned honorable mention for All-America from the USFCA after placing ninth at the NCAA Championships. Goto was one of two members of the Red and Blue to earn a first-team All-Ivy nod after recording an 11-4 mark in the Ancient Eight.

Joining Goto on the All-Ivy first-team was Christina Kaneshige, who went 10-5 in League bouts and 32-12 overall. Kaneshige also finished eighth at Regionals.

Sophomore Emanuelle Humblet earned a second-team All-Ivy berth after going 9-6 in Ivy action and 33-17 overall. She has averaged 37 victories in her first two seasons as a Quaker. In addition, Humblet also turned in an 18th-place finish at Regionals.

Second-year fencer Kate Zimmerly was named the Red and Blue's Most Improved Fencer after recording a career-high 24 wins and placing 18th in her first NCAA Championships appearance.

Balancing Act

Seniors Kimberly Linton and Elizabeth Kreidman made the epee lineup the Red and Blue's strongest entering the 2003 campaign. And while the weapon was once again a force for the Quakers, Linton and Kreidman received some help to make the epee perhaps Penn's most balanced squad.

Linton was her usual brilliant self, recording a mark of 24-14, her fourth-straight 20-win season. Kreidman made the most of her time in the lineup, winning 13 bouts. But the real story at epee in 2003 for Penn was the play of freshmen Jean Goto and Livia Rurarz-Huygens, who combined for 69 wins. Goto led the team with 35 victories, while Rurarz-Huygens was right behind her with 34 wins to her credit.

Also not to be lost was the continued strong play of sophomore Rebecca Richman, who went 9-3.

Another Young Lineup

The women's foil squad marked the youngest unit on both the men's and women's teams as sophomore Emmanuelle Humblet and freshmen Christina Kaneshige and Kate Napalkova combined for 74 victories.

Humblet, who in just her second year was the veteran of the group, posted her second-straight 30-win season by going 33-17 to lead the weapon. Kaneshige followed right on her heels with a 32-12 mark. Napalkova rounded out the foil starters with a record of 29-19 and boasted two victories over ranked-Columbia.

Junior Cindy Wang spelled the trio whenever needed, allowing the foil squad to not miss a beat as Wang went 9-0.

Breakout

While the women's epee and foil lineups were young, the coaching staff felt it knew what they could expect from them. The women's sabre squad was another story. Returning was senior Christina Verigan, who was her usual steady self, posting her second-straight 33-win season.

However, after Verigan, Micahnik was counting on junior June Hsu and sophomore Kate Zimmerly. Hsu had never fenced at sabre prior to 2003 and Zimmerly only had seven collegiate fencing wins on her resume.

All Hsu and Zimmerly did was combine for 49 wins. Hsu truly had a phenomenal season in her first-ever competition at sabre, recording 25 victories, while Zimmerly turned in a career-high 24 wins.

Sophomores Yael Miller and walk-on Ashley Zeigler capped off the Quakers sabre lineup, as the duo each won five bouts.

The University of Pennsylvania athletic department established the Penn Athletics Hall of Fame in 1996 to honor the greatest athletes and coaches ever to wear and coach the Red and Blue. After four induction ceremonies, the list of honorees has grown to include 111 people who helped create Penn's rich athletic history and tradition. The Penn fencing program has been honored with seven members of this prestigious collection of distinguished individuals.

Penn Athletic Hall of Fame

Francis Bartone

Frank Bartone became the seventh member of the Penn fencing program to be inducted into the Penn Athletic Hall of Fame on May 10, 2003.

Bartone was the first Penn fencer to ever be named All-American in two different weapons (sabre in 1951 and foil in 1953), Bartone served as team captain for the Red and Blue's first-ever NCAA Championship in 1953.

Bartone was a three-year letterwinner for the Red and Blue (1951-53) and continued to prosper as a fencer after Penn, winning the North Atlantic Sabre Championship in 1959 and placing second in 1958. Eight years later, he won the Oklahoma City Invitational and Southeastern Championships.

Maestro Lajos Csiszar

Just say, The Maestro, and all Pennsylvanians know you are referring to Lajos Csiszar, the legendary fencing master and head coach of NCAA champions and Olympic Games competitors.

The Maestro was considered one of the finest fencing masters in Europe when he left his native country for the United States in 1947. As Pennsylvania's head coach he guided the fencing team to two NCAA team championships (1953, 1969), and coached nine NCAA individual champions and 27 All-Americans. The 1953 NCAA title was the first ever won by any Pennsylvania varsity team.

Csiszar established the Salle Csiszar Club in Philadelphia, a training and practice club for many of the outstanding fencers in the country, and also a teaching center. He coached American fencers in Olympic and Pan-American Games, and in world championships.

Paul R. Friedberg

Paul Friedberg was the recipient of the Class of 1915 Award in 1981, the first fencer to receive the award which is presented annually to that member of the senior class who most closely approaches the ideal University of Pennsylvania student-athlete.

Friedberg was a four-time all-Ivy League choice in sabre competition, a three-time All-American, and the NCAA sabre champion in 1980 and 1981. He was a member of Pennsylvania's 1981 NCAA championship team, a member of the U.S. junior national team as an undergraduate, and competed for the United States in the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul.

Friedberg graduated with degrees from the Wharton School and from the College of Engineering and Applied Science. On learning of his selection as the Class of 1915 winner he said: "Receiving this award brings Penn very close to my heart."

P. Todd Makler, Jr.

Todd Makler followed in his father's footsteps as a fencer, competing in the 1972 Olympic Games for the United States, 20 years after his father did. Makler was a first-team All-American in sabre in 1967 and 1968, and was NCAA individual sabre champion both years. He continued to compete following graduation, and had just received a degree from the Medical School in 1972 when he won his Olympic team berth, in epee, the same as his father did in 1952.

David M. Micahnik

Micahnik, who is currently the coach for the University of Pennsylvania men's and women's fencing teams, built a very impressive career for himself also at Penn. Under the tutelage of Penn athletic Hall of Fame member Maestro Lajos Csiszar, Micahnik began his prestigious career with All-Ivy League accolades in 1959 and made the Eastern finals in 1958 and 1959.

The following year, Micahnik competed in the first of his three Olympic Games, heading to Rome in 1960, Tokyo in 1964 and Mexico City in 1968. Micahnik's forte was the epee. He won the U.S. National title in 1960, with second-place finishes in 1964, 1966, and 1968.

Competing in the World Maccabiah games in 1965, Micahnik won the individual epee title and took second in the foil, with the epee, sabre and foil teams winning gold medals. In 1969 at the same competition, Micahnik again won the individual epee title, as did the epee team.

Currently, Micahnik is a Fencing Master, accredited by the U.S. Fencing Coaches' Association, and besides coaching at the University of Pennsylvania, he has guided several U.S. National teams, U.S. Under-20 teams and U.S. World University teams. In 1997, he was honored as the U.S. Fencing Coaches Association's Collegiate Coach of the Year.

Mary Jane O'Neill

Mary Jane O'Neill was the first Penn women's fencer to represent the United States in the Olympic Games, in 1988 in Seoul and again in 1992 in Barcelona.

O'Neill was a three-time all-Ivy League selection in foil (1984-1986), and a three-time first-team All-American (1983-85), and was the NCAA individual champion as a sophomore in 1984. As a senior captain, she also led the 1986 team to the NCAA team championship, the first by a Pennsylvania women's varsity team.

Following her senior year, O'Neill was the recipient of the Fathers Award, given annually to Pennsylvania's outstanding senior woman student-athlete.

Bob Parmacek

Bob Parmacek turned in an outstanding four-year career for the Red and Blue which culminated in a 1953 NCAA Sabre Championship and two-straight first-team All-American nods in 1952 and 1953.

Parmacek also helped Penn Fencing become a national power in the middle of the century, as his first varsity season in 1951 saw the Quakers post their first NCAA finish since 1925 (second-place).

The 1953 Eastern sabre champion, Parmacek also posted two consecutive second-place finishes at the event.

After graduation, Parmacek was commissioned as an Ensign in the U.S. Naval Reserve and put on active duty. In 1955, as a member of the U.S. Military Fencing Team that competed in the Military World Championships in Cairo, Egypt, Parmacek finished second in the sabre competition. He was a member of the U.S. World Championship Team in Rome, Italy and was appointed to the 1956 U.S. Olympic Squad.
