I-26 Series

Tuesday’s match renews one of PC’s three I-26 rivalries against local foe USC Upstate. PC is 4-14-1 against the Spartans winning last in 2008. The Blue Hose lead the D-I series 2-1 but lost last year’s meeting 2-1 in double-overtime. The first meeting was in 1980 when Upstate (Then USC-Spartanburg) downed the Blue Hose 9-1.

Northern Exposure

Following Tuesday’s match, PC heads north for a trio of matches in Burlington, Vt. against Vermont and New Hampshire.

Big Night for Logan Huff

“If it is to be, its up to me,” was Logan Huff’s mantra on against Furman as the Blue Hose captain erupted for two goals in the match to give PC a 2-1 win over the Paladins. He doubled his career goals tally in one night and scored for the first time since Oct. 17, 2008.

First OT Win Since 2007

The extra time victory over the Paladins broke a 10-match overtime winless streak.

Boulware Breaks Schnide vs. Furman

The Furman match holds special importance for Coach Boulware. Not only did he coach for the Paladins for five years, he also received his masters degree from the institution and still lives in Greenville. So is it any wonder why Boulware’s victory against the Paladins left him speechless? The victory snapped a three-match losing streak for Boulware and a losing streak that strung back to 1983.

Three For Byron

Sophomore Byron Quinatoa opened his second season with a pair of shots against Furman. He was led the team in shots and was only the second Blue Hose to register more than one shot.

Redmond’s Revival

Goalkeeper William Redmond played as many minutes against Furman as he did in the entire 2009 season. Last year, the netminder worked just 62 minutes allowing four goals. He stopped seven shots in the season opener allowing just one goal.
Makin(g) Assists
Lewis Makin notched his third career assist with his corner kick against Furman. All three have come at Martin Stadium and he has posted a point in each of the last two home openers.

UNDEFEATED!!!
The 2010 Presbyterian College men’s soccer team is a perfect 1-0 when outscoring its opponents.

50-50 Openers
With the win in the 2010 curtain-raiser, PC is now an even 17-17 in the opening game of the season.

Good Results AFTER First Win...
The Blue Hose have backed up wins in the opener for the most part with a 9-6-1 record in the second game of the season following a win in the opener.

Preseason Picks
In the 2010 Big South men’s soccer preseason poll, the Blue Hose were tipped to finish in eighth position by the Big South coaches.

19 OT Wins
The Blue Hose are inching closer to a program milestone as the win over Furman was the 19th victory in overtime for PC.

LIVE on the Big South Network
Fans that can’t make the trip to Clinton have a new opportunity to watch PC soccer matches. This year, many matches will be broadcast on the Big South Network online video streaming service.

Next Time You See Us...
The 2010-11 season is Presbyterian College’s final season in the transition to full D-I membership. Next year (2011-12) PC will be fully eligible for postseason play. Currently, the Blue Hose factor in the standings but are not eligible for the Big South Championship in any sport other than men’s tennis or softball.

Just call us PC
When writing about Presbyterian College, please use the full name on first reference. Subsequent references can utilize PC and Blue Hose. Please refrain from calling our teams simply Presbyterian or Presby.

WHAT IS A BLUE HOSE?
“A Blue Hose is a fierce Scotch-Irish warrior. If you have ever seen the movie Braveheart, you have seen a true Blue Hose.”

Despite this depiction, it still has been asked many times where Presbyterian College received its Blue Hose nickname. Several rumors exist and Ray Frank in his book, “What’s In A Nickname” delved into the subject. Frank discovered that there were many opinions. One story had it that the Presbyterian Scotch-Irish wore blue stockings in the Puritan beginnings of our country. Another said that a fierce war-like band of Scotch-Irish named the Hose painted their entire bodies blue before going into battle. Yet, probably the true story lies in a letter dated June 15, 1935, written by then PC athletic director Walter Johnson to an inquiring English professor in Virginia ... (quoting from Walter Johnson’s letter) ‘It was about the second or third year, 1915, if I remember right. I think it happened this way: I changed uniform colors to blue, wearing blue stockings and jerseys, and some sports writer started calling in his articles the Presbyterian College teams the Blue Stockings.’... in later years “Stocking” became abbreviated to “the Hose,” particularly in newspaper headlines, and was more or less officially adopted by the student body in the 1950’s.

All the PC media guides since 1996 continued to elaborate on the issue, quoting an article by Ben Hay Hammet entitled “The Spirit of PC.” The piece by Hammet articulated that, “Johnson always insisted on the fact that his players wear long blue socks similar to stockings (after all, there were White Sox and Red Sox in baseball).

Coach Johnson’s explanation may simply be coincidental to the fact that the phrase “Blue Stocking Presbyterian” goes back informally quite a few years in the denomination’s history.” Nevertheless, PC’s athletic nickname was shortened to Blue Hose in 1954.

Bret Boulware enters his 11th season at the helm of the Presbyterian College men's soccer program. Boulware led his 2009 team to three wins and two ties in its toughest slate in many years. The Blue Hose finished 2-4-2 in league play to take sixth place in the Big South and earning a 1-1 draw against regular-season champion Coastal Carolina. Boulware's squad also finished the 2009 season with a thrilling 1-0 win over VMI in the season finale.

The Blue Hose posted four wins during the team's first year of Division I play, the first of which was a 2-0 victory over Longwood on Sept. 16, 2007. PC posted back-to-back wins over Gardner-Webb and Jacksonville. In 2008, his team finished with two wins and two draws against a very tough slate of games.

In 2006, Boulware led the Blue Hose to a 8-3-3 overall record and a 2-2-2 record in their final season in the South Atlantic Conference.

PC concluded its time at the NCAA Division II level on a strong note. The Blue Hose were nationally-ranked for a large part of the season and were ranked as high as fourth regionally. Three players earned NSCAA all-region accolades in forward Brandon Tucker (first team), defender John Odum (second team) and goalkeeper Mark Owens (second team).

Tucker and Odum were both also named to the All-SAC first team, while midfielder Bennett Cope was chosen to the league's second team.

Between the 2004 and 2006 seasons the Blue Hose posted a record of 28-19-4 and finished no lower than sixth in the SAC. In 2005, the team finished 11-7-1 and was fifth in the league, while they ended the 2004 season with a 9-9 record.

In 2003, Boulware led the Blue Hose to an 11-5-1 overall record and a second place finish in the SAC regular season with a 5-1-1 mark. In addition, PC placed six players on the All-SAC teams and three players in Kevin Czar, Derek Knapp, and Doug Belknap were named to the NSCAA All-Southeast Region teams.

In 2002, the Blue Hose compiled an 8-9-0 overall record, including a 5-2-0 mark in the SAC regular season. PC finished tied for second in the SAC regular season title race with Wingate University and advanced to the semifinals of the Food Lion/SAC Tournament. In addition, the team placed two student-athletes on the NSCAA All-Region teams in Knapp and Belknap. Belknap was also named to the Verizon Academic All-America third team.

In 2001, Boulware led the team to a 6-8-4 overall record, including a 5-1-1 mark in the SAC regular season. The team fought through an injury-plagued season to win a share of the SAC regular season title with Wingate University. In addition, PC advanced to the Food Lion/SAC Tournament semifinals before losing to Carson-Newman College.

In 2000, Boulware led the Blue Hose to a 12-5-2 overall record, including a 5-2-0 mark in the South Atlantic Conference regular season, which was good for a second place finish. In addition, PC advanced to the Food Lion/SAC Tournament semifinals before losing on penalty kicks to Catawba College.

Boulware, a 1992 graduate of PC, returned to his alma mater in 2000 after serving as an assistant head coach at Furman University for five years. During his time at Furman, Boulware helped lead the Paladins to five Southern Conference Championships, which included the 1999 season which saw the team post a 21-2-1 overall record. The Paladins earned a trip to the NCAA National Tournament quarterfinals and a No. 3 national ranking in Collegiate Soccer’s final poll.

Boulware is no stranger to the Blue Hose soccer program, having played from 1988-91 and twice earning All-America honors. Boulware, a goalkeeper while playing at PC, still owns the program’s single-season and career records for fewest goals allowed by a goalkeeper and was a member of the 1988 squad which set the program’s record for consecutive wins without a loss (11). Boulware served as team captain in 1991, earned team MVP honors that same year, and was selected to participate in the Umbro Senior Bowl All-Star Game.

After finishing his career at Presbyterian, Boulware moved to the sidelines where he served as assistant coach of the Blue Hose men’s soccer program for three seasons. During that time, PC won two SAC regular season titles and posted a 38-16-6 overall mark.

In addition, he served as a coach of the South Carolina Olympic Development Team and holds a USSF National “B” License.

A 1992 graduate of Presbyterian College, Boulware earned his B.S. in history and social studies. He also holds a master’s degree in education with an emphasis in history. Boulware is a native of Columbia, S.C., and is married to the former Gina Gatti (PC class of ’89) of Columbia, S.C. and has a daughter Royton.
